

WHAT IS CLAIMED IS:

1. A method in a bus system of adjusting a transmission parameter of a transmitter in the bus system, comprising:

determining a topography of the bus system;

determining a control value based upon the topography;

conveying the control value to the transmitter; and adjusting the transmission parameter of the transmitter using the control value.